OTHER PUBLICATIONS

More than 300 book reviews in learned journals, newspaper articles, and brief, extraneous pieces comprise other professional publications.

ORAL HISTORY

Performance as interviewer for more than 750 taped interviews plus work as Director and Coordinator for the American Indian Research Project and the South Dakota Oral History Project represent service in the Oral History Center on the campus of the University of South Dakota since 1968. Many of these interviews are available on microfiche through the Microfilming Corporation of America, and nearly 50 by Herbert T. Hoover are individually catalogued by the Library of Congress.

EXPERT WITNESS FOR HISTORY AT FEDERAL COURT

This service entails the publication of essays for use as exhibits, the preparation of depositions, and verbal testimonies regarding historical relationships between American Indian tribes and federal, state, and local agencies of government. Almost continuously since 1982, I have served as an expert witness--sometimes for tribal and sometimes for non-Indian governments. The charge is to express historical relationships without an adversarial disposition.

PRESENTATIONS OF FORMAL PAPERS

The last of 44 formal papers through the year 1993 was "Research in Historic Sioux Country: The Art of Regional Scholarship," The Forty-first Annual Harrington Lecture, University of South Dakota, May 1993. Numerous informal lectures given since 1993.

FILM PRODUCTIONS

Involvements with film productions have included consultation, script preparation, and appearance before camera as historian. Included in films have been "Health Care Crisis On Rosebud," "Rosebud To Dallas," "Oahe: A Question of Values," "Sites And Sounds Of Sioux Religion," the recent companion to The Yankton Sioux with the same name by the film company InVision of Philadelphia. Others include "Lewis and Clark," "Bear Butte," and "State Parks" for South Dakota Public Broadcasting, 2004.

ARCHIVAL CONTRIBUTIONS PRESERVED BY THE AUGUSTANA COLLEGE CENTER FOR WESTERN STUDIES IN SIOUX FALLS

"Herbert T. Hoover Digital Archive." This comprises photographs that represent the history of Sioux Country gathered in archives from across the continent plus others taken by Herbert T. Hoover. A unique feature in this archive is a collection pertaining to Indian spirituality in Sioux Country taken during the Indian Renaissance, 1970-1985. Copies are available in return for a fee of $55 per photo image. (Digital management is provided by Elizabeth Simmons.)

Sioux Country Encyclopedia. This manuscript text comprising approximately 3,300 pages contains thematic essays that represent all of the ancestral and modern tribes of Sioux in the United States. Each of four volumes contains an index. Anyone who wishes to peruse the contents may do so at the Center for Western Studies but none may duplicate a single page because this Encyclopedia contains thematic essays mainly based on readily available original sources identified in footnotes.

"Indian instruments and related artistic representations of traditional spirituality in historic Sioux Country." All are available for viewing and photographic representations taken by viewers with cameras in hand.
